To whom it may concern:

If I am reading the "Discussion Draft" correctly then it will make it easier to become federally recognized as a tribe. As far as I can see it this has nothing to do with cultural recognition and everything to do with federal monies, lands, and resources. As a concerned citizen, I am against any language to make this an easier process unless at the same time the recognized tribe will agree not to be eligible for public resources or reverted resources due to eminent domain. This country simply cannot afford to hand out any more money. This country also should not continue to violate non-treaty people's civil rights by creating second class citizens out of them.

Thank you ,
Justin Bryce Finlay
